

More than 950 million people in the world need glasses, but cannot afford them. Children can't learn, adults can't work and provide for their families.

Our solution: OneDollarGlasses

Thanks to those, people can see properly for the first time in their lives.

Locally manufactured

The OneDollarGlasses are produced locally and without electricity on a simple bending machine. Jobs for optical specialists as well as eyewear producers are created in Latin America, Asia and Africa.

Globally active

In ten countries, we perform free eye tests and fit eyeglasses individually. We raise awareness and educate people about eye care, and provide assistance if a cataract operation becomes necessary.

Sustainably structured

Numerous local partners support our goal of providing sustainable eye care. In addition, we are part of a global network of development work in this field.

Our work makes a significant contribution to achieving 11 of the 17 UN Sustainable Development Goals.
